Niger without child labour

Name:

Niger without child labour by the end of 2021

Description:

This involves setting up a platform to accompany state commitments to relevant international conventions on the rights of the child and to create the conditions for a collective longitudinal study of actions on the ground.

This platform will bring together representations from international institutions, parliamentary organizations on the rights of the child, employers' and workers' trade union organizations as well as artists and influential national figures, in addition to NGOs and associations.

Implementation plan:

Organize the official set up of the platform on the objective of contributing to ending child labour alongside the state and all its partners. This platform will host public debates on local media, social networks and will hold regular discussion fora to share developments in implementation. We will set up a BAROMETER monitoring system.

Impact:

Our action pledge appears to be best suited to the inertia observed in the fulfilment of official pledges in Niger to end child labour by carrying out existing commitments. The pledge will also allow a better understanding by citizens of the credit allocations and statutory and administrative measures in place.
